DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hughes, 6,158,676.

Hughes discloses an annular, protruded wall (70 and 76), which is spaced outwardly from an outer periphery of the spray nozzle, see near (32) in Figure 2C, which is protruded forwardly, and which surrounds an exit of the spray nozzle, see Figure 2C and 8A.

As to claim 2, a wall surface extending between the outer periphery of the spray nozzle and the annular, protruded wall is defined by a tapered surface or a curved, concave surface, see (76) in Figure 2C and 3.

As to claim 3, a wall surface extending between the outer periphery of the spray nozzle and the annular, protruded wall is defined by a planar surface perpendicular to an axis of the spray nozzle, see near (56) in Figure 2C.

As to claim 4, a wall surface of the annular, protruded wall is parallel to an axis of the spray nozzle, see (70) in Figure 2C.

Art Unit: 3763

As to claim 5, a wall surface of the annular, protruded wall () is defined by a forwardly spread surface or a forwardly constricted surface, see (76) in Figure 2C.

As to claim 6, a cylindrical portion is disclosed at (70), and a leading end wall (76) at a leading end of the cylindrical portion, the leading end wall having an spray nozzle, the leading end wall including a first wall surface (i.e., outer surface of 76), and a second wall surface (i.e., inner surface of 76)).

As to claim 7, the first wall surface is conical.

As to claim 8, the first wall surface is curved in section.

As to claim 9, the first wall surface is planar in section.

As to claim 10, the first wall surface is planar.

As to claim 11, the second wall surface (i.e., inner surface of 76) extends radially inwardly from the periphery of the first wall surface (i.e., outer surface of 76), see Figure 2C.

As to claim 12, the second wall surface (i.e., inner surface of 76) extends radially outwardly from the periphery of the first wall surface (i.e., outer surface of 76), see Figure 2C.

As to claim 13-16, the nozzle is a spray nozzle, and is configured to spray a liquid therethrough, see column 9, line 32.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to the above claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

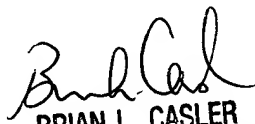

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Bellhouse et al., 6,013,050, and Nita et al. 5,916,192, both disclose a nozzle as claimed and is considered to spray liquid to the extent that fine droplets of fluids are dispensed through the nozzle.
